Part 5: Learning, Teaching and Assessment

Learning, Teaching and Assessment Journey:

The Agriculture (Livestock Production) programme utilises a mixture of teaching approaches which aim to support the student to develop a comprehensive knowledge and understanding of the principles of agriculture. Learning opportunities are varied with students able to apply theory to practice on the institution's farm, during industry engagement, and through periods of work placement and study exchanges. The teaching and learning strategies employed within modules, aims to develop a scaffolding of practice through the degree to support students to prepare for differing assessment types, industry engagement and research. This will include formative feedback on oral presentations, written reports and coursework during individual and group discussions. This will result in graduates who can assimilate complex paradigms and propose justified solutions to problems related to agriculture and be work ready.

The Agriculture (Livestock Production) programme will have the following distinct unique selling points for each year of delivery:

Stage 0: Delivery focuses on developing a foundation in scientific and academic knowledge alongside a grounding in vocational skills.

The Foundation Year will prepare students with general study skills and opportunities to develop subject specific skills and knowledge. Additionally, the Foundation year includes an internship enabling a student to put their skills into practice and develop an early appreciation of employment opportunities and attributes necessary for enhanced employability.

Stage 1: Delivery is focused on building a practical and scientific foundation in agriculture to support students' academic and interpersonal skill development alongside vocational competency.

To achieve this, the first year takes an experiential approach to learning and concentrates on the development of fundamental knowledge and understanding of the agricultural industry and intellectual skills through lectures, seminars, practical and academic workshops and industry engagement. This enables students to analyse, evaluate and synthesise information and opportunities are provided for students to apply the knowledge they have gained into practice on the institution's farm, that consists of a range of mixed enterprises (dairy, sheep, beef, and arable), and through visits to external farms and industry. Access to a skills development bursary will also allow students to undertake and achieve industry recognised competency certificates to support their work readiness.

Stage 2: Delivery aims to consolidate the practical and vocational skills developed in the first year of study within industry environments. Students are encouraged to evaluate the impact and constraints of management systems and practices within the livestock production.

In the second year, students continue to apply their knowledge and understanding through evidence-based learning, application into practice and exposure to best practice through a range of visits to industry and guest speakers. Optional modules allow students to tailor and build their specialist knowledge and begin to focus on their chosen career path. Delivery will encourage students to develop their autonomy, engage in reflection and will reinforce the competencies developed in year one. There are also opportunities for students to undertake international study or professional practice within the industry. International study opportunities enable the students to experience a different culture and develop an international perspective of the agricultural industry. This will allow them to apply different production and management techniques and strategies to propose solutions to industry problems as well as gain professional practice experience which will apply their knowledge and understanding within industry and will develop their academic and vocational skills.

Integrated Placement Year (optional): Students have the opportunity to further develop their employability and can experience different livestock husbandry and livestock production methods used within modern sustainable agriculture within a regional, national or international environment.

Stage 3: Delivery aims to provide students with opportunities to apply research and the skills they have developed into practice facilitating individual specialisation within their chosen career path.

The final year concentrates on the individual development of the student and the expansion of their specialist career path. Students will engage with an extended period of work placement which will refine their ability to work effectively in Livestock production sectors of industry and further develop core graduate attributes to support employability. Taught content will focus on evaluation of emerging issues within livestock production across the diversity of global agriculture and students will be encouraged to engage in critical review and evidence-based learning, with opportunities to put this into practice provided during industry or research focused projects within their specialist sector.

This programme will be assessed according to the approved Academic Regulations.

Students registered on this programme will have access to the Hartpury University support services.

The distinctive module used by the Programme Examination Board to inform recommending differential awards for students when considering borderline performance profiles will be

Animal and Agriculture Dissertation or Undergraduate Dissertation

Added Vegetable and Soft Production (HAGVD7-15-5) as an optional module at level 5.

Material Alteration: Yes

Rationale: During the COVID pandemic the oral presentation (Supply Chain Management) was replaced with a practical skills assessment. The feedback from the two cohorts of students who have completed the module was positive to the change. They stated that it allowed them to compile an industry style report of worth that replicated tasks that would be expected of an enterprise manager or assistant farm manager. Vegetable and Soft Fruit has been added as an optional module at the request of students who recognise that vegetables are grown as a supplementary feed for livestock.

Resulting new version number: 4.5 (intakes 2020+)

Current version number: 4.0

Outline Change Details: Part 3: Included the new module (Introduction to Agricultural Economics) in year one of the programme structure and amended the credit value for Skills Development for Agriculture to 30 credits (from 45) and module code changed to HAGVD8-30-4 (from HAGV74-45-4). These changes are included following discussion with current cohorts of students whom felt that the skills module, whilst highly relevant, was too long and often encountered repetition. Discussion with second year students identified the lack of a business module in year one that would prepare students for the farm business management module in year two. Reducing the skills development module to 30 credits will allow for the inclusion of the additional 15 credit module.

Removal of the agricultural technologies module from year two of the programme. Feedback from students on the programme last year and from current second years was that the balance of the optional modules on the straight agriculture was restrictive. This resulted in a choice between agronomy and agricultural technologies which proved unpopular as most students wanted to select both modules. There was additional feedback that the technology content could be contextualised in more depth in the production modules.

Removed People Leadership and Change from the final year of the programme. Rationale is provided by student reluctance to choose the module. Although this reduces the number of optional modules in the final year the student feedback has been that there is sufficient choice on the programme.

Part 4 Changes made to the matrix to include additional module and those removed

Part 6 – Removal of modules from the assessment map matrix and the inclusion of the new modules

Part 8 – section removed in line with current template

Material Alteration: Yes and is accompanied by the relevant course information sheets.
